Re: Enyart v. National Conference of Bar Examiners
Proposed Software

Dear Ms. Brenner,

This responds to your letter dated December 22, 2010, regarding our emailed suggestion that "it might further help avoid the technological issues that have occurred in the past to load the [software] versions that Stephanie currently uses."

Your letter states that NCBE has purchased and previously used version 10.0.1178U of the screen reading software, JAWS, and version 9.18.7.16 of the screen magnification software, ZoomText. The letter asks us to please advise if Ms. Enyart is requesting NCBE to purchase JAWS version 12. It further asks us to advise whether Ms. Enyart prefers ZoomText version 9.18.7.16 or ZoomText version 9.19.0.

Our understanding is that, unlike the older versions of JAWS and ZoomText that Stephanie uses, the newer versions that you reference do not work reliably together. The newer version of the screen reading software, JAWS, works with MAGic, screen magnification software produced by Freedom Scientific, the same company that produces JAWS. As your letter indicates that the older versions of screen reading and screen magnification software that Stephanie uses are no longer available, NCBE should instead install MAGic rather than ZoomText, as MAGic is the screen magnification software that will work with the newer versions of the screen reading software, JAWS.

Therefore, we are requesting that NCBE purchase version 12 of JAWS. Rather than installing either of the versions of ZoomText that you reference, we request that NCBE instead install the JAWS compatible version of MAGic screen magnification software currently available.

Sincerely,

/s/ Anna Levine
